Consumer Satisfaction Survey (“CSS”) Results

Based on responses from residential consumers who switched to an electricity retailer from November 2019 to May 2020¹ and residential consumers who renewed with their retailer from January to June 2020²

¹ Based on about 5,700 responses received

² Based on about 1,600 responses received

Key Findings

1. There continues to be a high level of satisfaction with retailers' service: 97% before signing up / contract renewal and 91% after.
2. Almost all respondents (97%) found the process of switching to a retailer or renewing with their retailer easy.
3. Almost all respondents (96%) indicated that their retailer presented its offer(s) accurately.
4. Most respondents (96%) indicated that they had sufficient time to consider their retailer's offer or had signed up online and hence were not subject to time pressure.
5. Nine in 10 respondents compared price plans across different retailers before making a switch. For those who renewed with their retailer, only 1 in 2 did so. Most respondents used price comparison websites (64%) to make comparisons across price plans.
6. Fewer respondents had signed up with retailers at roadshows (30% compared to 46% previously surveyed).

Overall Switching Process

- The majority of respondents (97%) continue to find the switching process easy.
- 9 in 10 respondents compared offers across different retailers. Among those who had done so, most of them (64%) used price comparison websites to compare. Compared with the previous survey, there is a decrease in the proportion of consumers who talked to retailers at physical touchpoints (e.g. roadshows) to find out more information. This could be due to the restrictions implemented by the Government since April 2020 to curb the spread of COVID-19, which prohibits retailers from conducting most physical retailing activities.

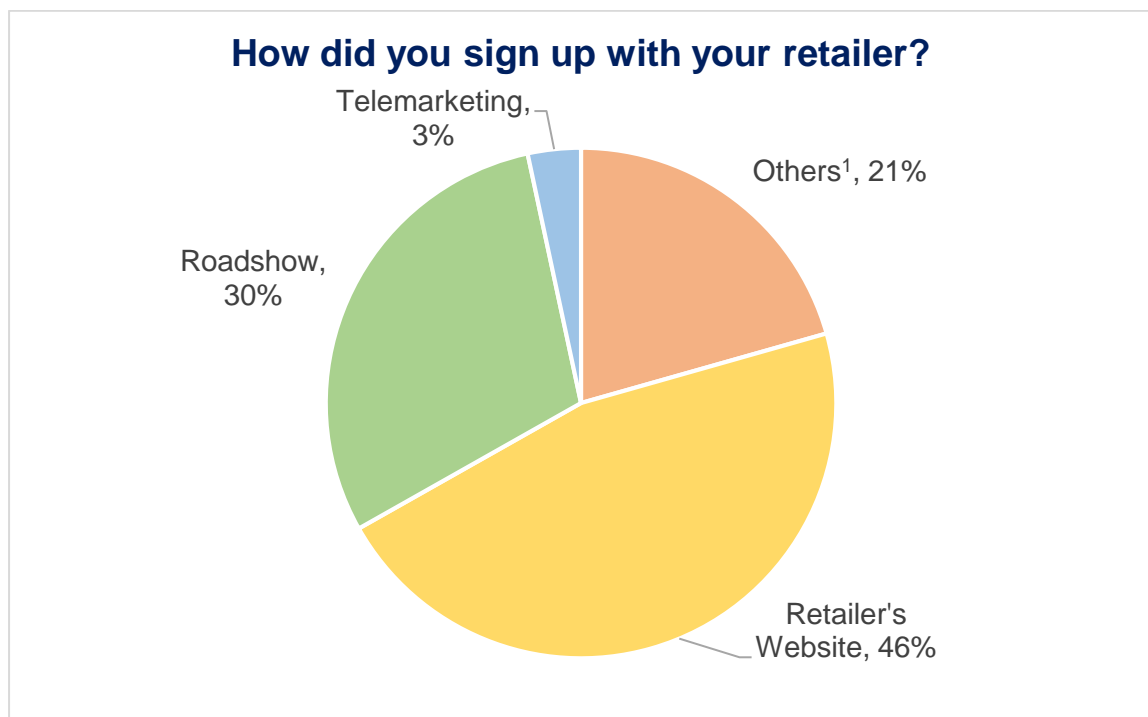

- Respondents mostly signed up with their retailer due to attractive price plans (78%).

Notes: 1. Examples of those categorised under “Others” include options for carbon neutral/green energy, same billing arrangement under SP Group, availability of hardcopy bills, short contract periods, good customer feedback and impression of good reliability for retailers with generation arms.

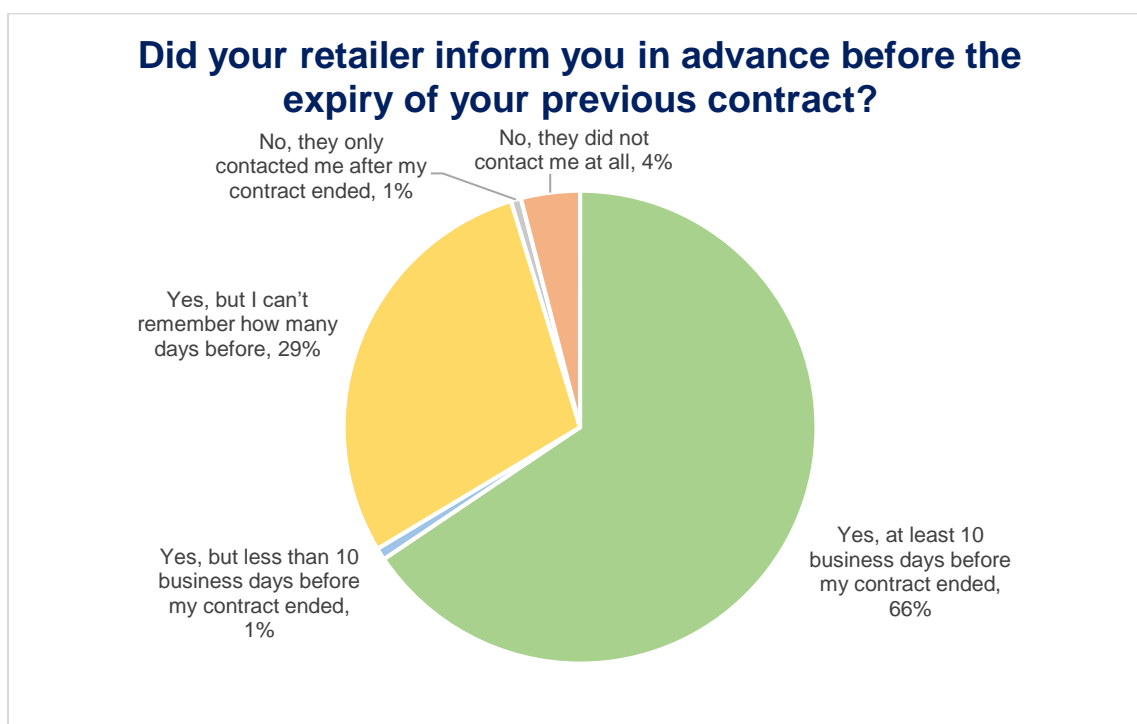

- In the previous survey, most respondents signed up with their retailer at a roadshow (46%). This has reduced to 30% most likely due to the effect of the COVID-19 restrictions. Most consumers (46%) are now signing up with their retailer online.

Notes: 1. Examples of those categorised under “Others” include channels offered by the retailers’ marketing partners, staff contracts, bundles with telco plans, and referrals by friends/family.

Overall Renewal Process³

- The majority of respondents (97%) found the renewal process easy.
- Retailers have to inform customers of the end of their contract period at least 10 business days before the end of the contract or the date by which a decision on their next electricity supply decision has to be communicated to the retailer (whichever is earlier). While most respondents (95%) remember receiving such notifications from their retailer, all consumers are encouraged to look out for communications from their retailers towards the end of their contract.

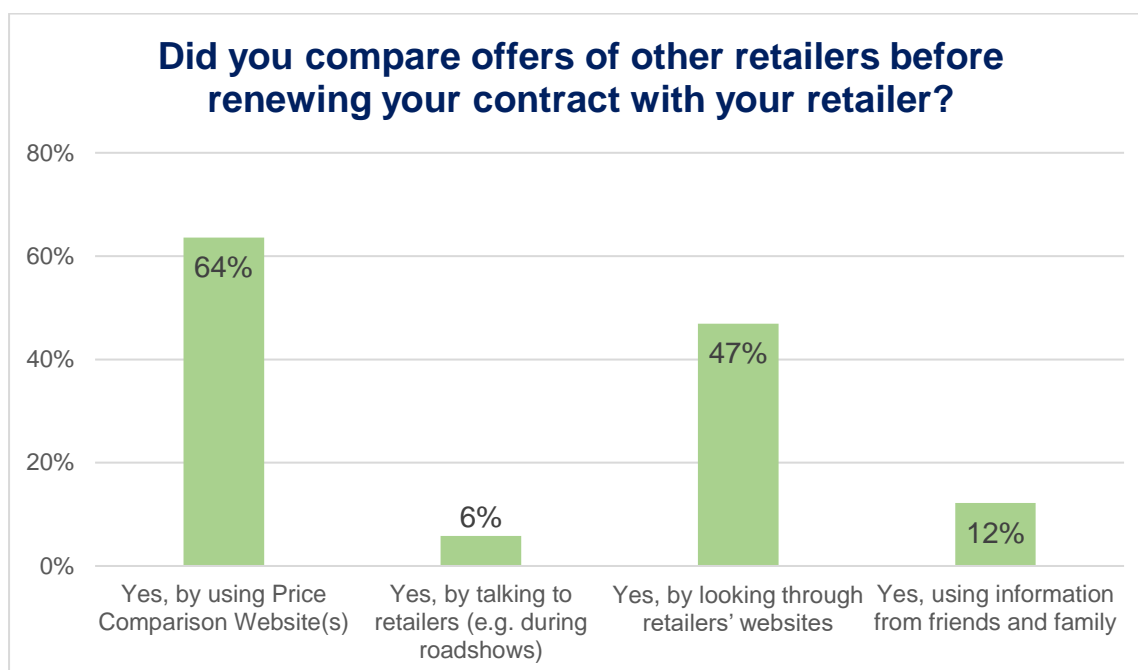

Notes: 1. Numbers may not add up precisely due to rounding

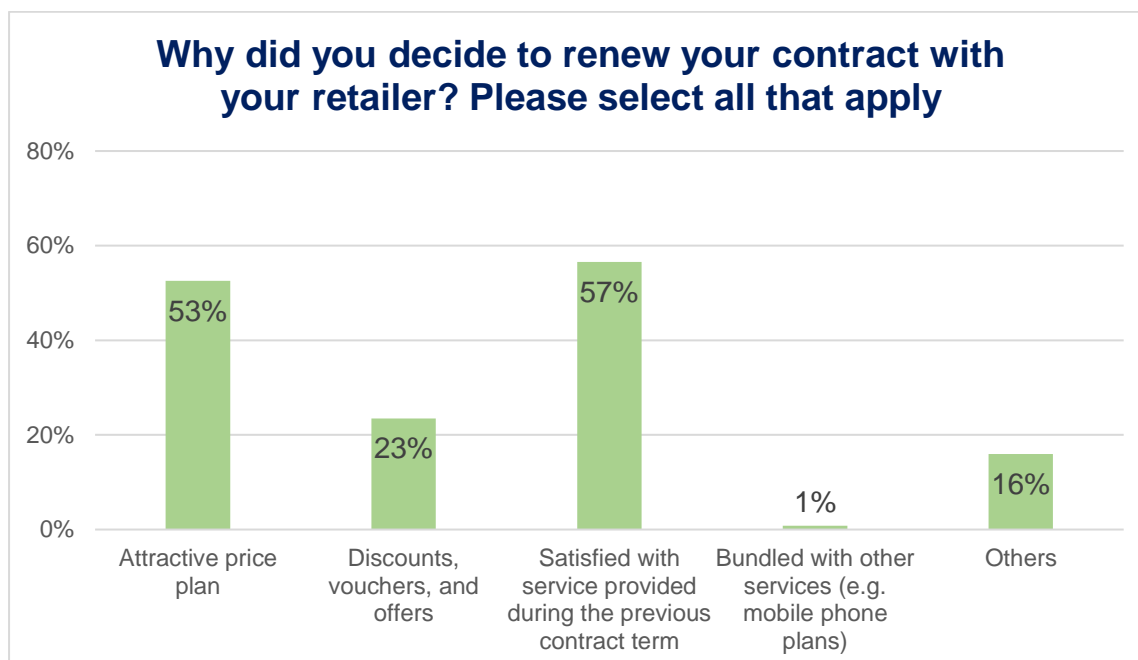

- The most common way of receiving the notification on the end of the contract period was via emails (85%), followed by letters (13%) and SMS (11%).
- The proportion of respondents who allowed their contract to be renewed automatically with their retailer (49%) and those who selected a new plan with their retailer (51%) is roughly the same.

³ This is a new section in this latest CSS report.

- 1 in 2 respondents who renewed their contract with their retailer compared offers across different retailers, much lower than those who did so before switching retailers (9 in 10). Among those who had done so, most of them (64%) used price comparison websites to compare. Consumers are encouraged to study the latest plans on offer before deciding whether to renew their contract with their previous retailer.

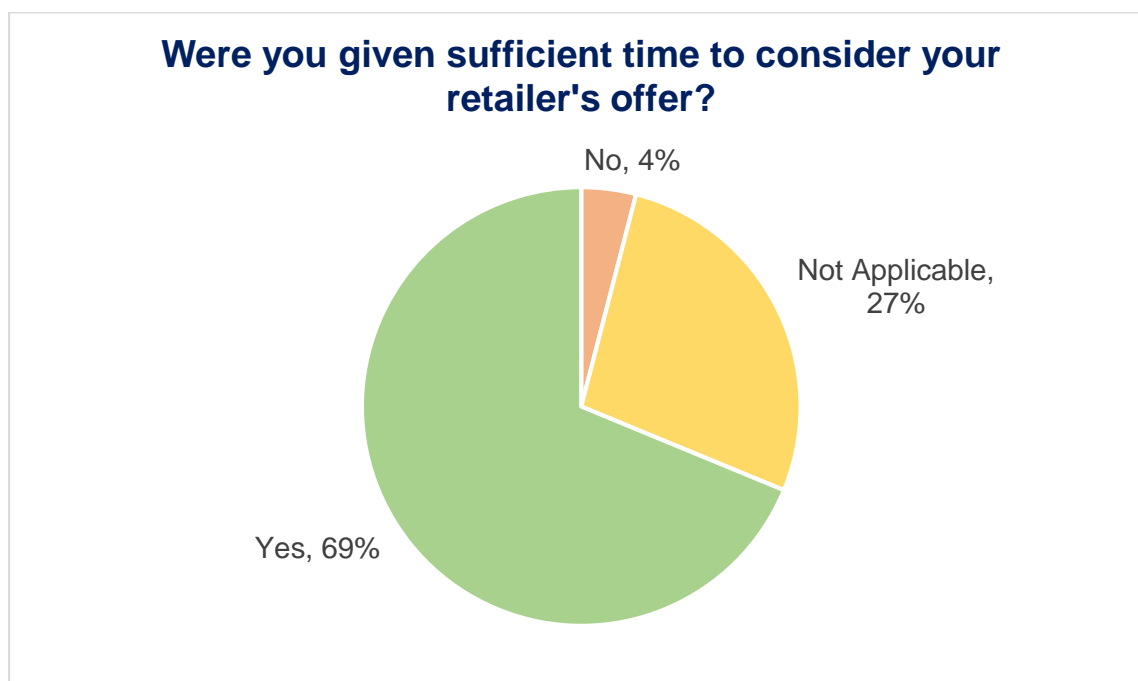

- The two main reasons for respondents renewing with their retailer are attractive price plans (53%) and satisfactory service provided during the previous contract (57%).

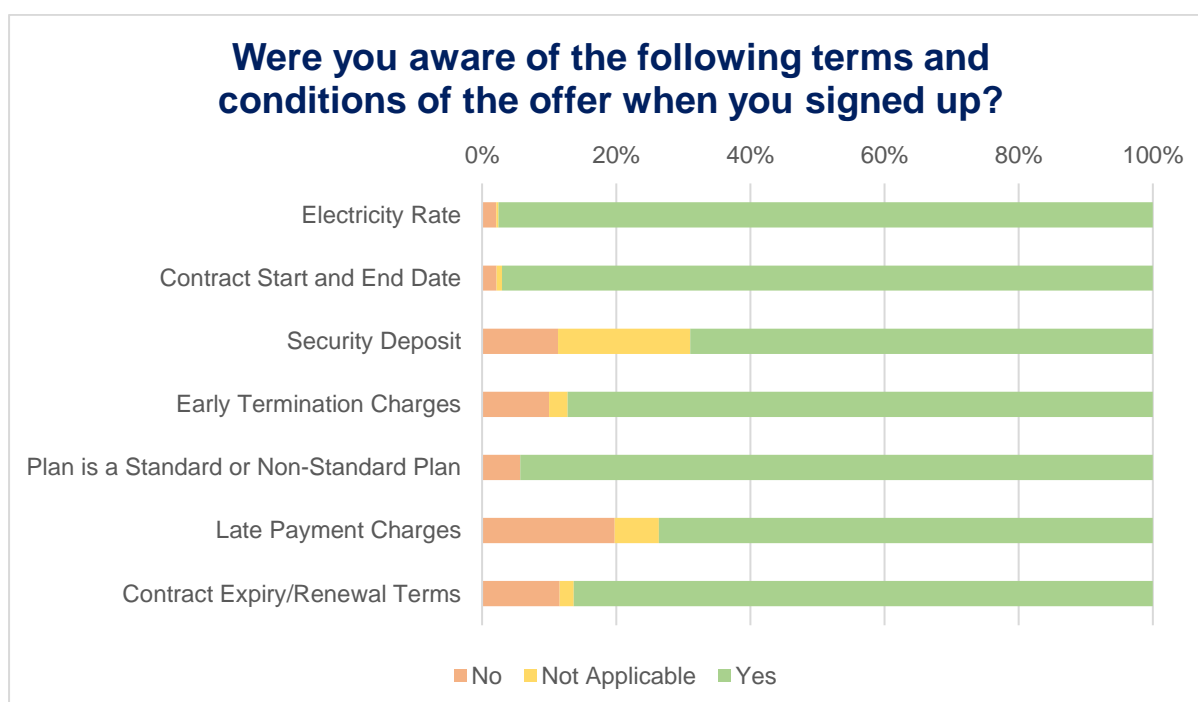

Notes: 1. Examples of those categorised under "Others" include convenience of renewing, having getting used to the new retailer, and perception of offers being largely similar across retailers.

Requirements for Retailers

- Almost all respondents (96%) indicated that their retailer presented its offer(s) accurately.
- Most respondents (96%) indicated that they had sufficient time to consider their retailer's offer or had signed up online and hence were not subject to time pressure.

- Respondents continue to be more aware of terms that are applicable to them immediately (e.g. electricity rate, contract period, security deposit). As it is also important for consumers to be aware of other terms such as late payment charges, early termination charges, and contract expiry/renewal terms, consumers are encouraged to read the contractual terms carefully before signing up with their retailer, or to keep a copy for their future reference.

Notes: 1. "I Do Not Remember" choices have been omitted from the above graph
2. For customers who renewed, the question is phrased "Were you aware of the following terms and conditions of the offer when you renewed your contract?"

- About 80% of respondents said they read and acknowledged the Consumer Advisory and their price plan's Fact Sheet when signing up or renewing with their retailer. This marks an improvement of about 10%-points from the previous survey. Consumers are encouraged to carefully read these two important documents, which contain important information and contractual terms that they should be aware of before signing up or renewing.

Notes: 1. "I Do Not Remember" choices have been omitted from the above graph
2. For customers who renewed, the question is phrased "When your contract was renewed, did you receive the:"

Service Standards

- The majority of respondents (91%) are satisfied with the service provided by their retailer.

- Almost all respondents felt that their retailers were able to address their queries or had no queries for their retailers. As the current report polled respondents who switched later in the rollout of the Open Electricity Market, there were more respondents with no queries for their retailers when signing up or before renewing their contract (47% compared to 40% observed previously).
